June:
Happy
LGBTQ+ Pride
Month!!!

While race is the biggest determinate of environmental injustices, women, low-income communities, and LGBTQ+ people are also disproportionately affected by environmental injustices. People who share more than one of these identities may be even more disproportionately burdened. Read more about the connection.

CBP Blog Post | Creating a brighter and more sustainable future for Annapolis. Joe Toolan works to increase the rights of LGBTQ+ community members and to protect the environment.

Julia Taylor Hanson

Some positive news: A new addition to the Hanson family!

While Jeremy is out until July 10, please reach out to me and Sushanth for anything WQGIT-related.

New Faces in the WQGIT!

Please give a warm welcome to our new interns, Alexis and Will, as well as our new DE representative, Bhanu Paudel.

Alexis Stelfox, WQGIT Intern
stelfoxa@chesapeake.org

My name is Alexis Stelfox and I am a C-StREAM intern working under Jeremy Hanson on capacity building in the Agricultural Sector. I am currently a Sophomore at UMBC pursuing a B.S. in Geography and Environmental Science with a degree track in Conservation and Water Science. During my time here I will be documenting relevant case studies about best practices for effective capacity building from partners to learn from.

Will McGrath, FWG Intern
mcgrathw@chesapeake.org

My name is Will McGrath and I am from Silver Spring, Maryland. I am a rising junior at RPI in New York. I am studying Business Management and Minorng in Sustainability. This summer I will be focusing on the goals for implementing Riparian Forest Buffers and assessing the staff and financial capacities needed to meet these goals.
