Greg Albrecht, M.Sc., CCA, AEM Certified Planner
Agricultural Environmental Management (AEM Coordinator)
Comprehensive Nutrient Management Planning (CNMP) Specialist
Division of Land and Water Resources
New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets
NYS Soil and Water Conservation Committee

Greg is the Agricultural Environmental Management (AEM) Coordinator and a Comprehensive Nutrient Management Planning (CNMP) Specialist with the NYS Department of Agriculture and Markets (2006 to present) and NYS Soil and Water Conservation Committee, which involves:

- providing technical training for Ag conservation,
- managing the AEM Planner Certification program,
- supporting local Soil and Water Conservation District AEM programming, and
- working with researchers, regulators, conservation partners, consultants, and farmers to blend policy (such as CAFO, NRCS standards, several committees and panels for the Chesapeake Bay TMDL, climate change mitigation and adaptation, etc.) and science into feasible solutions for farm viability and conservation of natural resources.

He has been working on applied solutions for agricultural environmental management since 1995. Prior to his current position, he worked as a statewide Extension Associate in Dr. Quirine Kettering's Nutrient Management Spear Program within Cornell's Department of Crop and Soil Sciences on such projects as: development and training of Cornell Cropware, the NY Phosphorus Runoff Index, and various other aspects of Cornell Nutrient Guidelines for Field Crops as well as co-teaching a senior level course at Cornell, "Whole Farm Nutrient Management" (2002-2006). Prior to his statewide position at Cornell, he was a Field Crops Educator with Cornell Cooperative Extension in a five-county region in Central New York (1996-1999). Greg earned a B.Sc. from Cornell's Department of Biological and Environmental Engineering in 1996 and a M.Sc. from Cornell's Animal Science Department in 2002. He is a graduate of LEAD-NY (Class 10), a Certified Crop Advisor (CCA), an AEM Certified Planner, and serves on the Northeast Region CCA Board.
